

Minimize the impact of RMDs

Take required minimum distributions (RMDs) but still leave something behind

Whether you're ready for retirement income or not, IRS rules require that you start drawing your savings from certain types of accounts at RMD age¹.

In essence, the tax deferrals afforded to some retirement plans don't last forever². Of course, navigating these rules can get a little complicated. In fact, it can potentially be a real puzzle.

But help is available.

Don't let RMDs tarnish your legacy

What if you could meet your RMD obligations while protecting your legacy?

It's possible with a fixed index annuity from North American. The idea is to take out just the income you have to take, allowing the balance to grow to help maximize what's left for the next generation.

Get premium protection and growth potential based on how indexes tied to market performance do.

The situation

You have no interest in taking RMDs. That money was supposed to be for your grandkids. But since it is required, you want to preserve as much of your legacy as possible.

Sammons Financial[®] is the marketing name for Sammons[®] Financial Group, Inc.'s member companies, including North American Company for Life and Health Insurance[®]. Annuities and life insurance are issued by, and product guarantees are solely the responsibility of, North American Company for Life and Health Insurance.

The term financial professional is not intended to imply engagement in an advisory business in which compensation is not related to sales. Financial professionals that are insurance licensed will be paid a commission on the sale of an insurance product.

Fixed index annuities are not a direct investment in the stock market. They are long term insurance products with guarantees backed by the issuing company. They provide the potential for interest to be credited based in part on the performance of specific indices, without the risk of loss of premium due to market downturns or fluctuation. Although fixed index annuities guarantee no loss of premium due to market downturns, deductions from the accumulation value for optional benefit riders or strategy fees or charges associated with allocations to enhanced crediting methods could exceed interest credited to the accumulation value, which would result in loss of premium. They may not be appropriate for all clients. Interest credits to a fixed index annuity will not mirror the actual performance of the relevant index. 1.
